Paid Arguments in Favor

Social housing is permanently affordable, community owned, mixed-income housing that's designed to stay off the speculative market—giving working San Franciscans stable homes at rents they can actually afford, for generations.

The biggest barrier to building social housing is funding. Expanding the Housing Trust Fund will provide funding that could be used to build the housing that San Francisco families desperately need.

Join social housing advocates and vote Yes on C!

San Franciscans for Social Housing
sfsocialhousing.org

Dylan Hirsch-Shell, Co-founder
Honest Charley Bodkin, Co-founder

The true source(s) of funds for the printing fee of this argument: Dylan Hirsch-Shell.

Women Are Voting Yes on the Housing Trust Fund Renewal

We're the teachers watching our students' families get priced out mid-year. We're the nurses working double shifts who still can't afford a down payment. We're the daughters caring for aging mothers who fear losing the apartment they've called home for thirty years. Housing instability falls hardest on women, especially mothers raising kids alone, seniors on fixed incomes, and caregivers holding families together.

That's why the Housing Trust Fund matters so much to us. For over a decade, it's built affordable homes, kept seniors housed, and helped first-time buyers like nurses, teachers, and first responders put down roots. Now it's set to expire, right as the crisis peaks.

Women built this city's schools, hospitals, and neighborhoods. We deserve to stay in it. Join mothers, caregivers, and working women across San Francisco: vote Yes on the Housing Trust Fund Renewal this November.

Assemblymember Catherine Stefani
Supervisor Jackie Fielder
*Nancy Tun, Chair, San Francisco Democratic Party

*For identification purposes only; author is signing as an individual and not on behalf of an organization.

The true source(s) of funds for the printing fee of this argument:
San Franciscans for Affordable Homes, Sponsored by the NPH Action Fund.

The sole contributor to the true source recipient committee: NPH Action Fund Political Issues Committee.

San Francisco's Asian Community Leaders Support Prop C

Our neighborhoods have long been anchored by multi-generational households with grandparents, parents, and children sharing a home, a community, and a future. Rising housing costs threaten that tradition. The Housing Trust Fund has spent over a decade keeping families together and rooted in San Francisco, but that funding is set to expire. This November, we can make the commitment to continue keeping families together and communities strong. Without raising taxes.

We need Prop C. Renew the Housing Trust Fund with no new taxes.

California State Treasurer Fiona Ma, CPA
Supervisor Chyanne Chen
*Mike Chen, Commissioner, Planning Commission
Malcom Yeung, CEO, Chinatown Community Development Center

*For identification purposes only; author is signing as an individual and not on behalf of an organization.

The true source(s) of funds for the printing fee of this argument:
San Franciscans for Affordable Homes, Sponsored by the NPH Action Fund.

The sole contributor to the true source recipient committee: NPH Action Fund Political Issues Committee.

Latinos Support Prop C

For Latino families, housing is more than a roof. It is the foundation for family, stability, and community. Affordable housing helps parents remain close to their children's schools, allows seniors to age near loved ones, and gives multigenerational families the opportunity to stay rooted in San Francisco.

The Housing Trust Fund has supported affordable homes, homeownership opportunities, and housing stability for residents who help make our neighborhoods strong. As our city confronts rising housing costs, continued investment can help preserve the diversity, culture, and community connections that have shaped San Francisco for generations. Please vote Yes on C.

Supervisor Myrna Melgar
Supervisor Jackie Fielder
Assessor-Recorder Joaquín Torres

The true source(s) of funds for the printing fee of this argument:
San Franciscans for Affordable Homes, Sponsored by the NPH Action Fund.

The sole contributor to the true source recipient committee: NPH Action Fund Political Issues Committee.

LGBTQ+ Leaders for Prop C

Rising housing costs threaten the community fabric that makes this city home for queer elders, families, and longtime residents alike.

The Housing Trust Fund has spent over a decade building affordable homes, funding rental assistance, and keeping vulnerable tenants housed. Without renewal this November, San Francisco loses one of its primary affordable housing tools at the worst possible moment.

Vote Yes on Prop C for homes we can afford, without new taxes.

President Rafael Mandelman
Supervisor Matt Doresy
Castro LGBTQ Cultural District

The true source(s) of funds for the printing fee of this argument:
San Franciscans for Affordable Homes, Sponsored by the NPH Action Fund.

The sole contributor to the true source recipient committee: NPH Action Fund Political Issues Committee.

VOTE YES ON C — AFFORDABLE HOUSING FUNDING SAN FRANCISCO CAN COUNT ON

More than 17,000 affordable homes in San Francisco are already approved and ready to build. Not one is waiting on permits or zoning. Every one of these projects is waiting on money.

Proposition C changes that.

Prop C strengthens the Housing Trust Fund that San Francisco voters created in 2012 and grows it to as much as $125 million a year for the next 30 years. That is the difference between a plan and a promise.

Prop C does not raise your taxes. It dedicates a share of the growth in property assessment revenue the City already collects to the homes our neighbors need.

Prop C writes that commitment into the City Charter, so it holds steady year after year, no matter who is in office. Affordable housing finally gets a place in San Francisco's budget it can count on.

As federal and state support shifts, San Francisco has a chance to stand on its own — and the means to do it. Prop C builds a dependable, local source of funding for the people who make this city work: teachers, nurses, restaurant workers, seniors on fixed incomes, families who have been here for generations, and neighbors moving off the street and into a home of their own.

San Francisco has always been a city people fight to stay in. Prop C is how we make room for them.

Vote YES on C.

Council of Community Housing Organizations
Build Affordable Faster California
TODCO

The true source(s) of funds for the printing fee of this argument:
San Franciscans for Affordable Homes, Sponsored by the NPH Action Fund.

The sole contributor to the true source recipient committee: NPH Action Fund Political Issues Committee.

SF Housing Advocates: Yes on C

San Francisco needs more homes, not less investment. The Housing Trust Fund helps build and preserve affordable housing, support first-time buyers, and keep longtime residents in their communities.

Renewal extends this proven tool through 2058, increases funding without raising taxes, and creates more homes for the teachers, nurses, first responders, families, and seniors who make San Francisco strong.

Supervisor Bilal Mahmood
Supervisor Danny Sauter
Yimby Action

The true source(s) of funds for the printing fee of this argument:
San Franciscans for Affordable Homes, Sponsored by the NPH Action Fund.

The sole contributor to the true source recipient committee: NPH Action Fund Political Issues Committee.

SF Democrats for Prop C

Affordable housing is the foundation of an inclusive, culturally vibrant, and diverse San Francisco. Prop C builds on the city's ongoing efforts to ensure that San Francisco remains a place where people from all backgrounds can afford to live, work, and thrive. Vote Yes!

San Francisco Democratic Party

The true source(s) of funds for the printing fee of this argument:
San Franciscans for Affordable Homes, Sponsored by the NPH Action Fund.

The sole contributor to the true source recipient committee: NPH Action Fund Political Issues Committee.

No Paid Arguments Against Proposition C Were Submitted