Rebuttal to Primary Argument Against Measure S

The opposition argument is ~~misleading or poorly-informed~~ CONFUSING AND UNAWARE CWR.

No goalposts were moved regarding sidewalks. State and City law have consistently held homeowners responsible for sidewalk repairs. This is true across nearly every city in California. Measure S changed nothing about sidewalk responsibilities, but it did fund high-traffic corridors, ADA-compliant intersection ramps, and repairs necessitated by city-owned trees.

Criticism of the program's fund balance overlooks the realities of public capital planning. Smart investing in our streets requires timing expenditures with major projects to maximize efficient spending. Until those projects kick off, funds are amassed - similar to saving up for a large purchase like a car or a dishwasher. A fund balance is actually a sign of good planning.

With oversight from a resident committee, Measure S revenues are carefully budgeted for major, multi-year infrastructure commitments rather than spent all at once. For example, queued up projects include the critical replacement of the failing Lake El Estero storm water pump station—estimated at over $3 million—and extensive street reconstructions on major thoroughfares like Foam and Franklin Streets.

Sidewalk repairs remain an ongoing commitment of Measure S, but the opposition argument asks voters to ignore the incredible track record of success that has been delivered on street improvements and storm water enhancements that protect the Bay and water quality.

Our progress is real and public oversight ensures smart investment in Monterey. 62% of the tax is actually paid by visitors to Monterey. We like visitors funding our infrastructure. Say YES to Measure S.
