IMPARTIAL ANALYSIS OF MEASURE "V"

Overview of Measure V. Measure V is a referendum regarding City of Banning Ordinance No. 1619 which was adopted by the Banning City Council on April 14, 2026, (the "Ordinance"). The Ordinance amends the City's official zoning map and approves a zoning change for property located south of West Westward Avenue and east of Sunset Avenue (generally, the south-east corner of West Westward and Sunset). The Measure was placed on the ballot by a referendum petition signed by the requisite number of voters. If Measure V is approved the Ordinance will become effective. If Measure V is not approved the Ordinance will not become effective.

Ordinance and Zoning Change. The Ordinance amends the City's official zoning map and approves zone change 22-3502 and more specifically applies to Assessor Parcel Numbers (APNs) 537-140-001 through -004, -006 through -012, 537-150-001, -003, and -004, -008 (the "MSJC Site"). The Ordinance changes the zoning for 41 acres of a 49.2-acre site within the jurisdiction of the City from Public Facilities-School to Very High Density Residential.

State law, set forth in California Government Code Section 66300 et seq., requires that the City identify and rezone other land in the City concurrently with adoption of the Sunset Crossroads Project which is implemented in part by Ordinances 1618 and 1620 to ensure 'no net loss' of the City's residential development capacity. To avoid a net loss to the City's residential capacity that would otherwise occur if the Sunset Crossroads Specific Plan Project is approved, the City amended the general plan land use designation and changed the zoning classification of the approximately 41 acres of the MSJC Site to Very High Density Residential, which would permit residential development from 24 to 30 dwelling units per acre, which would create capacity for no less than 1,146 units at the MSJC Site.

If the Ordinance is approved by the voters the City's official zoning map will be amended and the zone change to Very High Density Residential will be approved. If the Ordinance is not approved by the voters the zoning map will not be amended and zoning for the MSJC Site will remain Public Facilities-School.

Summary:

A "Yes" vote by a majority of those voting on Measure V means Ordinance No. 1619 will become effective.

A "No" vote by a majority of those voting on Measure V means Ordinance No. 1619 will not become effective.

ARGUMENT IN FAVOR OF MEASURE "V"

Vote YES on Measure V to support well-planned growth and a stronger future for Banning.

Yes on Measure V updates Banning's zoning map by designating property for future residential use, preserving the City's housing capacity as required under state law.

Passing Measure V will help allow Sunset Crossroads to move forward, bringing nearly $1 billion in private investment along with more shopping and services to Banning. Rather than driving to neighboring cities for everyday needs, Banning families will have access to major retailers, dining, and services right here in their community.

The project will also create more than 3,700 permanent jobs, bringing new employment opportunities to Banning residents and families.

Yes on Measure V preserves Banning's planned housing capacity while helping make possible the commercial and retail development that will bring new jobs, investment, shopping, and services to our community.

Vote YES on Measure V for well-planned growth and a stronger future for Banning.

REBUTTAL TO ARGUMENT IN FAVOR OF MEASURE "V"

Only You Can Protect Banning Against Mega-Warehouses

Banning's Planning Commission unanimously recommended denying the changes made by Measure V, but four City Councilmembers approved it anyway.

Measure V Is a Housing Shuffle
Proponents call Measure V "well-planned growth." They're misleading voters about what it does.

The Council stripped housing from more than 140 acres at Sunset Crossroads and crammed capacity for at least 1,146 homes onto 41 acres, less than one-third the land. It allows five-story buildings overlooking backyards.

Why? To move housing away from Sunset Crossroads so nearly 5 million square feet of mega-warehouses could take its place.

They cite state law to justify replacement housing, but leave out what the change accomplishes: clearing the way for mega-warehouses.

More Density Here. Mega-Warehouses There.
They admit Measure V helps Sunset Crossroads move forward. Measure V trades housing for mega-warehouses.

Sam's Club Is Not Measure V
Measure V doesn't approve Sam's Club.
It doesn't create shopping or dining.
It doesn't guarantee a job for Banning residents.

Those promises sell a plan that crams housing onto less land and changes the site planned for our community college.

More density here. Mega-warehouses there. Banning families pay the price.

ARGUMENT AGAINST MEASURE "V"

Vote No On Mega-Warehouses
Vote No On Measure V

Measure V is the housing shuffle that helps make the mega-warehouse plan work.

The Council took housing capacity spread across more than 140 acres and crammed room for at least 1,146 homes onto just 41 acres, less than one-third the land.

Why? They moved the housing so nearly 5 million square feet of mega-warehouses could take its place, bringing more semi-trucks, traffic, diesel pollution, and noise.

This is a bad trade for Banning: cram housing onto less land so mega-warehouses can take over somewhere else.

More density here. More warehouses there. Banning families pay the price.

Residents appointed to Banning's Planning Commission recommended denying this housing change. Four City Councilmembers approved it anyway.

Four people voted to change how nearly 32,000 Banning residents live and work, and the kind of community we call home. Now Banning voters have the final say.

That's why residents from across Banning fought back and put this decision on the ballot.

Banning can grow without mega-warehouses. Measures U, V and W are all part of the same mega-warehouse plan. Stopping it takes three NO votes.

Protect our families. Protect our neighborhoods. Protect Banning's future.

REBUTTAL TO ARGUMENT AGAINST MEASURE "V"

Measure V accomplishes two important priorities for the City of Banning: it protects Banning's housing future AND ensures Sunset Crossroads moves forward.

Voters can have both.

First, it protects the City's housing future by updating Banning's zoning map to designate property for future residential use, consistent with state housing law. Measure V places new housing near existing neighborhoods and close to services – exactly where new housing belongs.

Second, it allows the Sunset Crossroads project and its significant benefits to come to Banning.

What opponents leave out are the benefits Sunset Crossroads will bring to Banning: more than 3,700 permanent jobs, nearly $1 billion in private investment at no cost to the City or taxpayers, 98 acres of parks and open space, and new shopping and dining, including Sam's Club.

Sunset Crossroads will also generate approximately $44 million in new City revenue, including nearly $3 million annually. As Banning faces serious financial challenges, this revenue can help fund essential City services and provide resources to respond to other community needs, including homelessness.

Opponents portray Measure V as a tradeoff between future housing and Sunset Crossroads. But Measure V allows Banning to have both.

Measure V preserves Banning's ability to accommodate future housing while also allowing Sunset Crossroads to bring new jobs, investment, shopping, and much-needed City revenue.
