Rebuttal to the Argument in Favor of Measure P
City of Menlo Park
245/250 Words

Don't let the group proposing this measure fool you. Voting for Measure P will NOT save downtown, will NOT improve parking, and will NOT create affordable homes.

This small group prioritizes inefficient parking lots over the community's needs. They ignore vacant storefronts. They ignore the young families, seniors, teachers, nurses, firefighters, city staff, retail employees, and others who are priced out of Menlo Park.

Measure P will block affordable homes and convenient, modern parking downtown. Measure P risks losing local control city-wide because, despite what the proponents say, the city's annual report shows that the downtown sites are essential to the city's plan for affordable homes.

Measure P ignores reality and the need to address housing costs in Menlo Park. Unnecessary barriers will only worsen our affordability crisis. Our community cannot afford Measure P.

Measure P includes a poison pill: if anyone sues over this measure, only the three people who put it on the ballot — not voters, not City Council — get to make the final decision about defending it. But Menlo Park taxpayers pay the legal fees.

Measure P supporters say building housing downtown will hurt business. This is FALSE. As we have seen in neighboring communities, improving parking and adding housing means more small businesses and more customers.

Measure P would interfere with the City's decision-making process related to City-owned downtown parking lot properties, including improvements.

Measure P is bad policy that makes our community more expensive and less accessible.

Join us, Congressman Sam Liccardo, and Habitat for Humanity in voting NO on Measure P to save Downtown Menlo Park!
