Rebuttal to Argument Against Measure E

It's unfortunate our City Council is defending the interests of corporate landlords instead of responding to the needs of Redwood City residents.

We've spent the past decade pleading with the Redwood City Council to address the affordability crisis. But they've chosen not to pass meaningful protections.

The facts are:

Measure E will keep 6,300+ apartments affordable for Redwood City families and increase housing stability for 40,000 neighbors.

Measure E will NOT cost Redwood City taxpayers anything, as it will be funded by a small per-unit fee on landlords. Measure E prohibits use of the general fund for its ongoing costs, so why would the City Council raise taxes or cut city services? Corporate landlords, who own most of our rental housing, will pay the largest share of the fees. This works in many other California cities, and it will work for us.

Measure E regulates landlords — NOT ordinary homeowners. And small landlords who rent out single-family homes are exempt from rent control under state law.

Measure E will NOT impact building affordable housing. State law exempts all units built after 1995 from rent control, meaning there's no impact on building any new housing.

Like any landlord, nonprofits that own the few subsidized apartments built before 1995 can petition for a higher rent increase if needed.

Don't be fooled. Corporate landlords and real estate trusts have bought up 87% of apartments in Redwood City. They are spending big money to defeat Measure E to protect their profits, not to "protect affordable housing."

Vote YES on Measure E: Keep Redwood City affordable.
