Rebuttal to Argument Against Measure DD

For some San Bruno community organizations, Fourth of July fireworks sales are an important annual fundraiser. These dollars are invested directly into the community through youth sports, scholarships, veterans' programs, school activities, camps, charitable assistance, and other local programs. Eliminating these sales could significantly reduce funding for participating nonprofits, potentially requiring them to scale back programs, increase participation fees, or raise additional funds through other community efforts.

Since voters approved Safe and Sane fireworks in 2005, conditions in San Bruno have changed. The city now experiences heightened fire risk in designated hazard areas, and public safety agencies report increased seasonal hazards. Although Safe and Sane fireworks are legal under state law, they are not entirely risk free.

Any modification or elimination of the program must be decided by voters through a ballot measure. The community must weigh both the longstanding fundraising benefits to local nonprofits and the evolving fire-safety considerations that have emerged over time.

Residents are encouraged to review the available information and determine the approach they believe best serves the community.
