Argument in Favor of Measure W

YES on Measure W brings Willowgrove's new homes, public parks, and opportunities for working families to northeast Davis.

Davis needs housing that our young families, teachers, local workforce, downsizing residents, and next generation can afford. Willowgrove delivers it. Measure W provides 1,250 homes, including 20% permanently affordable homes built without taxpayer subsidies and 23% attainable townhomes supported by developer-funded homeownership assistance. Advancing inclusion, at least 20 affordable homes are reserved for adults with intellectual and developmental disabilities.

This isn't just a housing project – it's community and connection. Willowgrove also brings a $21+ million regional public park funded by the developer, not local taxpayers. These amenities for all of Davis include:

- Lighted soccer and softball fields and pickleball courts
- Inclusive playground
- Tournament-grade basketball gymnasium with community meeting rooms
- Expanded youth sports opportunities, including filling unmet needs for girls' softball and basketball space

Over one-third of Willowgrove is parks, natural open space, and community gathering spaces. With an existing undercrossing, three miles of new trails, and walkable neighborhood retail, the all-electric community upholds Davis values.

Willowgrove is the first project in Davis history with an approved Subdivision Map before the public votes, providing detailed plans and holding the developer accountable to build what voters approve.

The advance planning expedites delivery and can bring students for the 2028-29 school year to support Davis Joint Unified School District enrollment and programs.

Davis needs responsible growth that delivers real community benefits. Shaped through community input in over 70 public meetings, Willowgrove meets this need. It brings a fiscally positive neighborhood that delivers affordability, parks, bike paths, funded traffic improvements, and long-term community value with a clear plan for implementation. It's designed for Davis and ready now.
