REBUTTAL TO ARGUMENT IN FAVOR OF MEASURE U

We agree that students deserve safe, well-maintained schools. The problem is that Measure U is presented as a solution, but it doesn't answer whether it's the best plan for our students and taxpayers.

We should also be honest about the burden on taxpayers: residents are already paying for three school bonds, and new home construction has increased District's tax revenues. So, why is an additional $49 million bond necessary now? Can we really trust them?

The argument in favor depends on broad claims like "failing infrastructure" and cites issues such as "roof leaks" and "old portable classrooms." Those concerns may be real, but a bond is still a 30-year commitment. Voters deserve more transparency: a clear, prioritized list of what will be fixed first, how costs were calculated, and how we know these repairs won't just become another ongoing cycle of emergency "fixes."

The promise that Measure U will "prepare students" with "modern labs" and "career technical facilities" sounds promising, but funding details matter. If the district is facing infrastructure failures, we should prioritize safety needs for our students first.

While the "taxpayer protections" section is reassuring, oversight isn't a substitute for accountability. We need cost controls, reporting of expenditures by project, and consequences if projects run over budget.

No bond should pass without a clear plan, proven numbers, and full transparency on cost and risk.

VOTE NO on MEASURE U!
